

Shahrul (second right) and UPMKB officials during the aid delivery to the student's home.

UPMKB extends aid to storm-affected student

BINTULU: A student of Universiti Putra Malaysia Bintulu Campus (UPMKB), whose house here was badly damaged during a recent storm, has received assistance from the university.

The aid was delivered to the student's home by UPMKB campus director Prof Dr Shahrul Razid Sarbini.

"This gesture shows the university's sensitivity and concern for the welfare of its students, especially at such a difficult time," said Shahrul.

The assistance comprised cash, food and other necessities.

Joining Sharul for the visit were officials from the Student Management Office.

Meanwhile, UPMKB in a statement said the assistance is in line with the family spirit at the university and concern for the welfare of its students.

"The university hopes that the student will recover quickly so that she can continue her studies with peace of mind," it said.