

Internships for foreign language students

FINAL year foreign language students from the Faculty of Modern Languages and Communication in Universiti Putra Malaysia will be required to gain practical experience in their majors beginning next year.

Under the new industrial training course, the duration of study for these students will be extended by 10 weeks.

They will also be working on project papers for their undergraduate thesis.

The varsity's academic staff are currently confirming suitable organisations for the internships and efforts so far have focused on profit companies with overseas connections.
